New Garden Valley Market

CSHQA, a design collaboration, is pleased to announce the completion of the new Garden Valley Market in Crouch, ID. CSHQA worked with owners of The Garden Valley Market and the partners in Village Associates LLC. Gerold Dennett and Greg Simione are partners in Village Associates LLC and owners of the real estate, and Larry and Ilene Leasure are partners in Village Associates LLC. Together CSHQA and Village Associates LLC collaborated to design the new grocery store for the remote mountain town. CSHQA provided architectural, engineering and planning services that allowed the owners to realize their dream of expanding their business.

"Our goal was to grow the store from convenience to full time grocery. We wanted to contribute to our community and offer a choice of shopping locally or driving to Boise," the owners said in a note sent out to their community.

The new store, which opened its doors July 19, 2011, features heavy timber construction, stone accents, wood siding and warm colors to help blend the new market with the existing rustic shops in Garden Valley. The existing Crouch Mercantile's 3,410 SF has been increased to 15,050 SF, which includes 8,117 SF of new retail space and an additional 6,865 SF of support area to sustain full grocery services. Adjacent to the new market is 2,805 SF of retail space and 2,720 SF occupied by Les Bois Credit Union. The new market is a welcome anchor to Garden Valley's downtown retail core. White-Leasure Development Company served as the developer of the market and planned village expansion.

CSHQA is a progressive architecture and engineering firm with teams that continue to work together with owners to create better-built environments and spaces. CSHQA is headquartered in Boise, ID and has branch offices in West Sacramento, CA; Phoenix, AZ; Denver, CO and Roseburg, OR.
