Silver Mine Tap Room at Whole Foods Market, Kimball Junction – Park City, UT

Every project carries its own story—shaped by its place, its purpose, and the people invested in its success.

100% Employee Owned

No two stories are the same. A historic building carries different responsibilities than a new terminal. A neighborhood grocery serves its community differently than a hospitality destination or a university campus. Each project arrives with its own history, challenges, ambitions, and stakeholders. Our responsibility is to work through those nuances and serve as stewards of the project story through every decision that follows. Since 1889, listening has been the foundation of our work. We begin by asking questions and learning what matters most to our clients. Only then do we begin design.

CSHQA is a 100% employee-owned architecture and engineering firm with offices in Boise, Denver, and Sacramento. Because every member of our team shares ownership in the firm, every project is personal. We are invested not only in the quality of the design, but in the success of the people who entrust us with their vision.

Our architects, engineers, interior designers, landscape architects, and historic preservation specialists work together as one team, bringing diverse expertise to a common purpose. When consultant partners join a project, they become part of the same collaborative process. We coordinate to deliver thoughtful, well-executed solutions that respect budgets and project schedules while creating purposeful places with meaningful community impact.
